Mayor's Prayer Breakfast celebrates community leadership

by Richard Westlund

The fourth annual Mayor's Prayer Breakfast attracted a full house Friday morning as community leaders were celebrated for their efforts on behalf of the community.

The breakfast, which featured Her Honour Lt. Governor Lois Hole, focused on the various leaders of government and the people's appreciation of the job they do to help meet the challenges the community faces.

"It's important to take a few minutes out of our day and pray for our communities leaders," said Breakfast Committee Chairman Roy Brassard. "I think the breakfast is important to everyone. We need to take some time, to stop and thank our leaders in our community. The standard of living we enjoy is made through our leaders."

Brassard added that leaders were not just elected officials but also the businessman and the other people who take a key role in making our communities, locally, provincially and nationally work.

Sgt. Ron Platz and Cpl. Vaughn Christensen also took the stage shortly after breakfast was completed to give greetings on behalf of Canada and Alberta.

Platz took the time to read a poem written by B. Schneidmiller that he thought was appropriate for the event and later presented the mayor with a framed copy.

"I believe that I live in the best Country in the world, our beloved Canada. I have freedom of speech, and the serenity of the knowledge of peace."

"I share with my fellow Canadians the promise of a prosperous future. I give to my country the loyalty of a true friend for I am a proud Canadian."

Mayor Ray Lea gave greetings from the Town and thanked Didsburians for their support during his last term.

"Thank you for the support over the last four years," said Mayor Ray Lea, who announced last month he would not be seeking re-election this fall. "I hope you will all support our next mayor as well."

Lea added he thought the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast was a great thing for the community.

Lois Hole, Alberta's 15th Lieutenant Governor, said that the Mayor's Prayer breakfast is an important event and that she enjoyed the time she was able to spend in Didsbury.

"I think like so many events, something like this brings people together," said Hole in an interview shortly after the event.

"It brings people together from different backgrounds and creates understanding and fellowship."

"I loved it - the friendliness of the people. It was a lovely breakfast and it went very smoothly. People at functions like these are always so good and kind to me," said Hole who shook hands with everyone as they filed out of Westglen's gymnasium.

Philanthropist finishes funding for U of A athletic complex with $2M gift

Former Didsburian aids U of A athletic complex

by Scott Zerr
Edmonton Sun

Talk about putting your best Foote forward.

When Eldon Foote heard that the University of Alberta was about $2 million shy of the funds needed to complete the new south campus athletic complex, he knew that he could help in some capacity. As a successful businessman turned philanthropist, finding ways to assist those in need was what he loved to do.

Funny thing was when he took on the assignment, he was a little slow on the uptake as to just what the U of A had in mind.

"I was following the progress with interest and three months ago I met with the officials who showed me the scale model. Everything was steaming ahead in terms of meeting the (construction) deadline but they were a little short of funds," explained Foote, a 1948 grad of Alberta's school of law.

"I figured there would be no problem raising the money with all the oil and gas royalties around but they asked me if I knew anybody who might be interested in helping them out ... not realizing they were thinking of me. Three weeks later, I realized it was me."

Living in Australia

The now 76-year-old retired entrepreneur who lives on Norfolk Island Australia with his wife, Anne, contributed the final cheque to finish off the project which was unveiled last night at the U of A's annual Wall of Fame dinner at the Shaw Conference Centre.

The facility's first use will be as the practice centre during the World Championships in Athletics in August. Then it will be used primarily by the Bears and Pandas teams as well as community and high school sports programs.

On the heels of Eldon Foote track and field scholarships - the largest single individual endowment in the history of Alberta athletics - and the Eldon Foote Chair at the school of international business and law, Foote Field is yet another significant stamp the former Bears sprinter will leave behind.

"As the years go by, you gain a greater appreciation of your time in university and what it meant in your life," said Foote, who achieved his fortune through a household consumables empire in Australia, Japan and Hong Kong, which he ultimately sold in 1997.

"Reflecting back on those years in university, I think you make more lifelong friends there than at any other time in your life, which gives it all the more meaning. When my wife and I retired three years ago, we decided to devote our time to what we wanted to do and that was philanthropic work with the university being a focal point."

In addition to their work within the athletic department, the Footes have made major contributions to Faculte Saint-Jean and the Faculty of Nursing as well as other scholarships and cancer research.

More Alumni Help Needed

The one-time valedictorian, president of Delta Upsilon fraternity and Students' Union secretary believes his donation should be just the start of other such enterprising decisions made on campus.

"It is time for the alumni to do more of the supporting rather than the government," he said. "U.S. schools have always depended on their alumni and that hasn't happened yet in Canada, but I think greater awareness will lead to that. The precedent has been set."

Olds man found guilty of assaulting woman

A 38-year-old man who punched an Olds woman in the face, breaking a tooth and causing bleeding, has been jailed.

Edward Joseph Allison was found guilty by Judge C. Daniel of assault causing bodily harm and mischief last month. He was sentenced on Monday.

It was the second time he has been sentenced for assaulting the same victim.

The accused and the 37-year-old victim were in an Olds apartment in Feb. 2000 when he struck her with his fist, court heard.

The accused had been drinking at the time, said Crown prosecutor George Coombe.

"You reacted in a most violent way," Judge Daniel said. "You deliberately hit her."

Allison destroyed clothing and photographs belonging to the woman by burning the items.

The accused spent two months in pre-trial custody before Monday's court appearance.

Allison was convicted of assault causing bodily harm and assault against the same woman in 1999, court heard.

"I need to deter you from engaging in this type of activity," Judge Daniel told the man.

"I need to protect the public. I sure hope you get the message that this kind of behavior will not be tolerated."

The judge jailed Allison for a month and ordered him to submit to random drug and alcohol testing over the next 18 months.

Man fined for refusing to give breath sample

A man charged with impaired driving after being stopped at a checkpoint in March has been fined.

Bernard Hayward Clarke pleaded guilty in Didsbury provincial court on May 2 to a charge of refusing to provide a breath sample. On acceptance of the guilty plea, the Crown withdrew a charge of impaired driving.

Clarke's trial was scheduled before Judge C. Skene, but the accused changed his plea.

He was stopped at about 3 p.m. on March 12 after police noticed him driving erratically. Crown prosecutor Gord Wong told the court.

Counterfeit money turning up in Didsbury again

by Richard Westlund

Didsbury RCMP are seeking help in their fight against those who are producing and passing counterfeit bills.

A Business Watch Bulletin was issued two weeks ago warning businesses that counterfeit bills were being passed in Didsbury bearing the Serial #s AVA8695285, AVA8825282 and AVV2595286.

Last year the RCMP collected a half dozen counterfeit bills in the town. This year they have seized that amount again.

"In the last couple years we have seen an increase in the number of counterfeit bills, especially 20s," said Sgt. Ron Platz adding that counterfeit money never really was a problem three years ago.

Rarely do the RCMP ever get a call regarding somebody being caught in the act of passing a counterfeit bill. Most often the bill is discovered after being in the bottom of a till for a while.

That is why it is crucial that people who encounter a fake bill phone the RCMP and give them as many details as they can regarding how they obtained the bill.

"If they can supply us with the bill and a lead we can go back to the party and see where they got the bill from."

Possessing and producing a counterfeit bill can carry a jail sentence up to 14 years, as can uttering (passing) a counterfeit bill as stated under Sections 450 and 452 respectively of the Criminal Code.

Platz said passing fake money is not a victimless crime as those who end up with the bill are not reimbursed. Most often it is a business or a bank that ends up with the problem of fake bill.

Money that is seized is sent to Ottawa where it is officially determined whether it is a fake or not. Platz 90 per cent of the bills sent to Ottawa are, as suspected, phony.

Counterfeit 20s have been

Reproductive Technology draft bill is long overdue - Myron Thompson

Myron Thompson, Member of Parliament for Wild Rose, says the government's draft bill on reproductive technologies is incomplete, long overdue and requires much more consultation with the provinces.

Health Minister Allan Rock unveiled draft legislation to the Standing Committee on Health yesterday.

The draft bill bans certain activities such as human cloning, sex selection, creating human embryos solely for research purposes, the sale and purchase of human embryos, and also provides strict regulation of other practices such as stem cell research.

Those who ignore these bans will face tough penalties including fines of up to $500,000 and sentences of up to 10 years in jail.

The Committee is to review the draft legislation, consult with witnesses and provide a report on draft legislation by the end of January 2002.

"This draft bill is a good start, but it has been eight years since the report of the Royal Commission on New Reproductive Technologies and five years since the government's last attempt to introduce legislation on this subject.

"Canada is lagging behind other countries in providing an appropriate regulatory regime for reproductive and genetic technologies," said Thompson.

"It is also clear that the provinces have not been thoroughly consulted or that their activities have been coordinated with the federal government.

"Once again the federal government has forgotten that the primary responsibility for health rests with the provinces. The Official Opposition will be stressing the need for a much more thorough federal-provincial cooperation in this area" stated Thompson.

The proposed legislation would also create a new regulatory body, which will set rules and standards for technologies ranging from in vitro fertilization to splicing human cells into animals for laboratory research. The Minister of Health left open how the regulatory body would work and what regulations will guide it.

"Over the coming months the Canadian Alliance will work to define what that regulatory body should entail, in other words, will it be independent, scientifically informed, considering information from ethicists and faith communities, and be open and transparent to the public."

Theft From Local Business

On Saturday the 28th of April, 2001, between the hours of 9:30 PM and 9:00 AM, thieves stole a roll of chain link fence and approximately 20 pallets from behind Home Hardware in Didsbury. The fence was a 6'x 50' roll that was to be installed to keep thieves and vandals out. The pallets were sprayed with blue paint to make them identifiable, and were clearly marked "Property of Chep Canada" on the sides. The fencing material was very heavy and is believed that two people would be needed to lift it into a truck.

Hit & Run

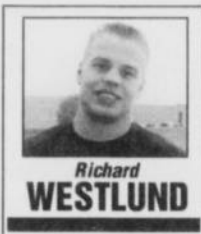

Sometime in the early morning of Wednesday the 25th of April, 2001, a vehicle traveling northbound on 20th street and 19th avenue in Didsbury, AB, struck a cement pillar that was used to hold up a STOP sign. The vehicle, believed to have been a truck, sustained a large amount of damage to the undercarriage and radiator. A trail of antifreeze was left behind and led north on 20th street to 20th avenue, west on 20th avenue to 23rd street, then south on 23rd street where it ran out.

If you have any information or concerns regarding either of these crimes, please contact the RCMP Detachment at 335-3382.

Mother's Day

Richard WESTLUND

Once a year we take a day and celebrate mothers. We buy flowers and cards, potted plants and when we are too far away we make a special phone call to the one that has brought us into the world.

When I was a young child I used to think that days that celebrated my parents were unfair. Why is there a Mother's Day and a Father's Day, but not a Kid's Day, I used to ask.

"Every day is a kid's day," would be the reply from my father.

Mothers deserve to be celebrated for what they have done in the past what they mean to us now, and how we will rely on them in the future. The relationship between a mother and her children changes drastically as her kids grow up but the relationship is nevertheless always an important one. A young child is totally dependant on his/her parents, but when that child leaves home and embarks on a new life, the dependency may change to one of experienced advice.

But through both cases, and all of the time through the middle and afterwards, there is a bond and a friendship.

While May 13 will be a celebration of Mother's Day, it actually is a celebration of the lifelong bond of mother and child. It is recognition of all the roles a mother can play and how they are applicable to the welfare of her offspring.

To my mother:

Thank you for helping me take my first steps, for wiping the dripping pablum off of my face and changing my dirty diapers.

Thank you for driving me to school that first day, and the years of baseball practices and hockey game.

Thank you for helping me with homework in high school and fundraising for my graduation.

Thank you for the financial support during college years and lending a vehicle when a certain commute was impossible.

Thank you for helping to make every day, my day.

Ponderings of the heart

by Mararet Fradley

On Mother's Day a pastor once gave this special tribute to his mother. "My mother lives out what I preach." What a testimony.

What a privilege to be a mother, and to have this opportunity and challenge to pass down, and on, to our children, values, and priorities in life that will give it meaning.

The memories we have of being a mother and the joys, sorrows, concerns, trials, griefs, all of which have helped to make us what we are. We, I am sure, have discovered that our children teach us many things.

On Mother's Day we often look for special treatment; for flowers, chocolates, cards or phone calls, but as we ponder about our days of 'being a mother,' is it not sufficient for the day to remind us of all the blessings motherhood brings us.

One of life's gifts is that when we grow older, the troublesome, difficult and irritating times with our children no longer come to mind; we seem to have a good memory for the positive and good things that happened.

Looking back in motherhood can be most rewarding. There were sacrifices to be sure; going through difficult trying times with our children, sitting by sick beds for sometimes days and nights, but for each sacrifice we reaped something that cannot be replaced.

Are we thankful we have been chosen to be a mother, with all that goes with it. Is this enough for us to feel special on 'our day'?

MP's column

Day issue has been a frustrating one for local MP

by Myron Thompson, M.P.

This past week has been the most difficult, annoying and disappointing of my political career. As you are aware last spring I publicly encouraged Stockwell Day to run for the leadership of the new Canadian Alliance Party. Not only did I think he was a good man but I knew he was a necessary candidate to make this an honest competition. As the leadership campaign played out Stockwell not only exceeded my expectations but also earned the leadership one Canadian Alliance member at a time.

What set the Reform Party and the then Canadian Alliance Party apart from any other political party in Canadian history was the fact it was driven by the grassroots. No one Member of Parliament, constituency president or hired political consultant could make a decision, which would over throw the majority of the membership.

Those are our roots and they remain intact today.

For these reasons I was deeply disturbed this week that a few of the formerly 'bright lights' of our party would go to the media and say that 75,324 of our members made the wrong choice last July. They had no right to speak for you.

I am convinced that changing leaders so early in this battle would be a huge strategic mistake. When our members vent their frustrations in public instead of having the courage to discuss their problems with their leader face to face they have destroyed the strength of the party that you created.

To my fellow grassroots members, you must rise up and unanimously support the leader you elected eight months ago. He is our General and we must follow him into this battle. Will there be casualties? Of course. But as members we must stop pointing the guns inward, and if we cannot then lay your weapon down and walk away.

There is work to be done. The action of these malcontents has served to strengthen the Liberals by diminishing the power of the Official Opposition. All Canadians should be outraged and view their actions as treasonous.

I for one would move heaven and earth for my leader and to those who say that nothing will change in seven days, I'm here to tell you that a lot can be created in seven days.

Snyders continue their adventure on Kenya soil

Dear family and friends,

Here is the next installment of our trip to Kenya.

The first morning we went to the giraffe center. The building at the giraffe center is a two-story round building with a balcony around it. From the balcony we could feed the giraffes that came up to the balcony.

We saw several giraffes off in the open space nearby and several were waiting to be fed. There were buckets of pellets (giraffe food) that we could feed them. Their tongues are a purplish-gray color. By the time we had fed a few pellets our hands were a bit slimy. It is amazing how big the giraffes heads are and how long their necks are. Their eyelashes would be the envy of most teenage girls. God must have a sense of humor, just look at some of the animals He created.

Each though, is perfectly adapted for its environment and food source. Giraffes eat the leaves off of acacia trees. They need long necks to reach up to the leaves without getting their bodies next to the thorns on the trees.

From there we went to the elephant orphanage. We got there in time to see the orphan zebras and rhino. It is right on the edge of the Nairobi Game Park and something had happened to their mothers or the animals had been abandoned for some reason. The rhino wouldn't come too close but the two zebras came right up to us so we could pet them. They took the zebras and rhino back and then the elephants came. Each of the three babies has a keeper with him/her 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for two years before they are introduced back into the herd. Even once they go back to the herd the keepers may stay several years to help them adjust. There are several keepers so that the elephant doesn't get so attached to one that if something happens to that keeper the elephant just dies. Elephants make very strong attachments. The keepers have follow the elephants around all day, feed them, teach them to feed themselves when they are old enough and even sleep with them.

It was interesting to see the babies with blankets on. It was just a little chilly. When the sun came out the keepers held umbrellas over the babies. Baby elephants normally will stand under their mothers to keep out of the sun. They sunburn easily. The keepers even had raincoats for the babies. One little guy was just two months old and he wanted to play. A group of school children (nursery school age) came and the baby elephant charged at them wanting to play.

He scared the children half to death so they screamed and cried which irritated the elephants so they all wanted to chase the children. The little guy then started charging at all of us and we got a chance to pet him. He kept trying to push people over.

We had planned on taking the night train to Mombasa that night but found out that just the week before they had stopped running every night and wouldn't go that night. Because of our schedule we couldn't wait until the next night or we wouldn't be back to Nairobi to go on our safari. We decided that since we may only have this chance in Kenya that we would fly down to Mombasa and back. Good decision, though it would have been fun to ride the train. We were able to get a good night's sleep and still had as much time in Mombasa as we would have had if we had gone on the train. (Admittedly, it was not enough time and we would love to go back again so that we could actually see some of the city of Mombasa).

It was definitely the off season.

We stayed at a hotel on the beach, quite large, probably a hundred rooms but there were only 5 people staying there. The price was great and included 3 meals and tea with the night's lodging.

The "thing to do" in Mombasa is to go snorkeling at the coral reefs. We made arrangements to go out that afternoon. None of us had ever gone snorkeling before but we were game to try. Our two guides, Gilbert and Suleman came with a small chow, a very interesting boat. It is like a canoe with outriggers. The canoe part was made or rough hewn boards that looked as old as the sea. The outriggers were "jerry-made", put together with bits and pieces. Parts of the outriggers had been eaten away by sea worms and some repairs had been made. The mast was several small tree trunks lashed together with a tattered sail attached. The sides of the canoe were brightly painted, even had an American flag painted on one side. And yes, it leaked. But we got in and "went snorkeling".

Actually, I went snorkeling for a few minutes, Dan got in the water but got out quickly and Sherry never left the boat. There had been a storm during the night and the water was quite rough and dirty so though I tried to snorkel, I couldn't see much.

It really takes concentration to just breathe through your mouth if you are not used to doing it. I got tired pretty fast. Neither Sherry or Dan are really swimmers. We decided since we had paid for two hours of snorkeling we would go sailing for that amount of time. That was fine with our guides and we had a wonderful time. There were quite the characters and we joked and laughed the whole trip.

The sun was out, the shore was lined with palm trees and resort hotels. It was just pretty and peaceful. The guides were very good sailors. A nice relaxing afternoon.

We got back to Nairobi with time to wash clothes, repack and get a few hours of sleep before taking off the next morning for Masai Mara game reserve and our safari. More about that next week.

To Staff-Community Announcements:

On behalf of the clients and myself I want to thank you for your incredible generosity throughout our car raffle. There are times when a thousand words cannot express the ultimate kindness of one's accomplishment. Your assistance is one of those accomplishments.

We have many men, women and children in our community who make the world a better place by being the kind of people they are.

Thank you for your ongoing support and for being there when we needed you. It is commitment like yours, that makes it possible for the Shelter to provide safety to over 276 women and 287 children a year.

Safety has become a primary issue for women leaving domestic violent situations as indicated by the recent rash of domestic homicides in our area.

Thank you for your generosity on behalf of our clients, the Board of Directors and staff.

Thank you for caring.

Lieutenant Governor's message about tolerance

Lois Hole, guest speaker at the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast, said good religions are tolerant of others.

by Richard Westlund

Guest speaker at the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast, Alberta's Lieutenant Governor Lois Hole brought with her a message of understanding and tolerance.

Addressing the people in attendance at the event which was held at Westglen school, Hole said the best religions were those that were tolerant of others.

"When my oldest boy was eight years old he went to a school where 90 per cent of the children there were Roman Catholic. He came home one day and asked what religion he was," said Hole delving into a story trying to illustrate her point.

Hole told him he was protestant and received a reply that he wanted to be Roman Catholic because a friend of his told him that God was Roman Catholic.

"I told him not to worry about it - that the Roman Catholics thought that God was Roman Catholic and the Protestants thought that God was protestant.

"Just because we have different ideas of God doesn't mean we still can't be friends."

Hole said while none of us are perfect, the effort to try and include understanding and tolerance in our lives is the important thing.

"None of us are perfect. As humans we are fallible. We need to try to do the right thing, try to be kind.

"If we can teach our children to be kind to one another that will go a long way."

Hole said she came from a family that was very religious. While growing up the minister sometimes became long-winded.

Hole said her grandmother would sit in the front pew and when the sermon went on long enough, her grandmother would knock and the minister would wrap up what he was going to say.

With the message, Hole also took the time to charm the audience with some of her stories.

On a Government trip to Buckingham Palace she was talking to a young traveller who asked her why she was going to London. Hole replied, "to see the Queen." The young man laughed and laughed thinking she was joking.

Hole, a successful business woman and wide read author, was appointed Lieutenant Governor in December of 1999 by Jean Chretien.

Hole served as a school trustee for the St. Albert School District from 1981 to 1998.

She previously served, for fourteen years, as a trustee and chairperson for the Sturgeon School Division, and for 11 years, as a member of the Athabasca University Governing Council.

She has served as a director of the Farm Credit Corporation and as Honorary Chair for the 27th Canadian Congress on Criminal Justice and for the Children's Millennium Fund.

Lois Hole addresses those in attendance at the fourth annual Mayor's Prayer Breakfast.

Hole is the author of six gardening books, all of which are Canadian best-sellers. She has recently released a collection of life stories and photographs entitled, 'I'll never marry a farmer'.

A 72-year-old Calgary male was killed when his northbound motorcycle slammed into an unattended parked vehicle near the Didsbury overpass. Road and weather conditions were excellent and an investigation is currently being conducted by Red Deer Traffic Services.

Day Homes are 'desperately needed' in Didsbury and area

by Carla Victor

On a day parents should be appreciating day home providers, many families will be told there is no room for their children.

Day homes are desperately needed in Olds, Sundre and Didsbury.

May 11 is National Day Home Providers Appreciation Day, chosen the last working day before Mother's Day because usually, these provider's homes are the children's home away from home.

"I always feel bad for parents when I have to say, 'sorry we can't help you', but what can you do," said Judy Miller, Olds and district Family Day Home Program.

Today there are 17 families on a waiting list. Day homes are many parents first choice for child care because of higher flexibility of hours, they prefer smaller numbers of children in a day home situation and feel the setting is more like their own home.

"Parents scramble to get their children into day homes," said Miller.

Possible providers are parents staying home with their own children and would like an income to meet their family needs.

"Two of my providers don't have their own children at home and one doesn't have any children of her own. They all have early childhood development diploma and love children. They know they can offer these kids a lot and might not like working in a day care setting," said Miller.

Day home providers must all have child and infant first aid and CPR, other training opportunities are a program called Step Ahead, Alberta Family Day Home Providers Training and Certified Program. Homes can have a maximum of six children, including the providers own children. All adults have to have a child welfare systems check, reference checks, a medical, a home safety check and police screening for anyone in the home over 12-years-old.

For more information contact Judy Miller at 556-2466.

Didsbury racer set for third Nevada challenge

by Richard Westlund

Paul Scott's third trip across the Nevada desert in his 1972 Mustang is a reflection of his life.

Scott, who is a pilot for Canadian Regional Airlines has always had a need for speed.

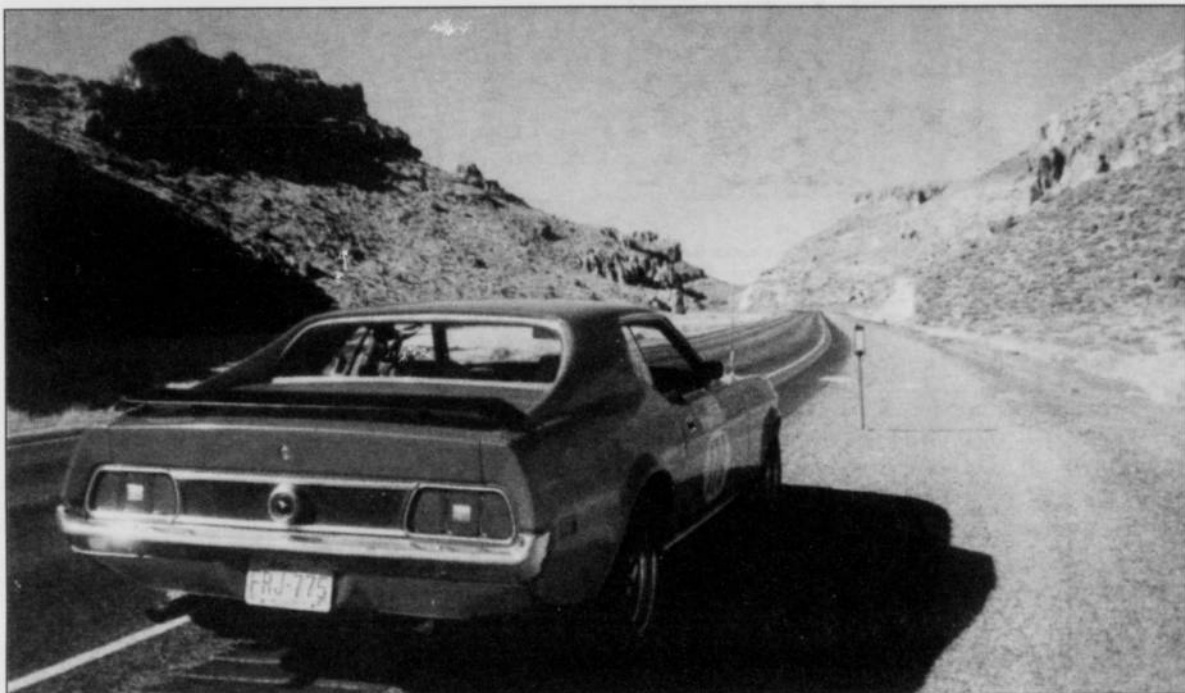

In two weeks, for the third straight year, the Didsburian will compete in the Silver State Classic Challenge - a 90.1 mile road competition that pits drivers against each other in being able to maintain a set average speed.

"I have always been fascinated by machinery and going fast," said Scott who collects and restores vintage sports cars in his spare time.

The Silver State Challenge is a biannual event that starts in Lund, Nevada and runs next to the infamous Area 51. The challenge has different divisions at different speeds that drivers try to maintain. Drivers are sent out from the start line in 30 second increments and try to maintain an average speed compensating for the acceleration at the beginning of the drive and the speed lost in the corners of the event. Scott is entered in the 105 mile per hour group.

If a driver in his group falls below 80 miles an hour, and this is monitored by police radar, they are disqualified from the race.

After all of the divisions are complete, there is an unlimited speed division - a straight-out race from start line to finish. Competitors from all over North America bring their souped up Porches, Lamborghinis and Vipers for a chance to open up their machines with out having to worry about receiving a speeding ticket.

The stretch of highway used in the Silver State Classic Challenge is full of curves and rock.

And on a road which has some bends through rocky walls - the feat is a dangerous one and has claimed lives in the past.

In Scott's division, there will be competitors using computers, and GPS satellite systems to keep track of their average speeds. Scott and his co-driver, Tom Kochnski, a life long friend, will be using a pair of stopwatches and keep an eye on the RPMs displayed on the dash.

At Scott's last event, the fancy equipment placed second to those who were participating in the race the old fashioned way.

"The race organizers make a point of that when it happens," said Scott.

The Mustang that Scott uses in the race has been his car since high school. It was the first car he ever bought. That was 23 years ago.

The car has since received a new paint job and modifications have been made to it so that it is appropriate for high speed driving. The 302 engine has been mildly tweaked and the car has a rollbar and a harness safety belt.

Scott was racing his car at Race City Speedway in Calgary and is the owner of a FIA Racing Licence. It was while racing in Calgary that he learned about the Nevada event.

"I have always loved sports cars and a friend of mine said the Mustang was ideally suited for this. And with the banquets and the camaraderie - it is an exciting adventure."

Paul Scott (resting against the '72 Mustang) poses with teammate Tom Kochnski who will ride shotgun for him at the upcoming Silver State Classic Challenge.

A $3,000 cheque was recently presented to Denise Derksen for the DHS Concert Band's trip to San Antonio from Didsbury Thrift Store Committee member Ev Peters.

Westglen had a packed April

On April 25 Steve Walton from the Calgary Police Drug unit came to speak to students about drug use among young people. His 75 minute informative talk was featured on the effects of marijuana. He also spoke at that evenings Parent Council Meeting. On Friday, April 27 the CPR came and presented students with a railway safety talk. Over Easter holidays Mrs. Israleson and Mr. Thompson took a small group of students from Westglen to Orlando, Florida. The trip was a huge success and everyone had an awesome time.

On April 25 Westglen's

Grade 8 badminton team went to Cremona to partake in the county tournament under Mr.O's coaching. All team members worked really hard and played awesome. In girls doubles Breanne Pratt and Amanda Sanderson placed first. In mixed doubles Catriona Richmond and Troy Tucker placed second. Amber Cambell placed third in girls singles, and Nicole Engel placed fourth. First and second winners can go to Brooks on May 5th to compete in zones. On April 30th track and field will start. Practices will be Monday and Thursday and will run to 4:30.

Any Grade 7 and 8 students who wish to participate can come and tryout.

Before Easter holidays Westglens WOW committee hosted a Talent Show and Lip-Sync. Thanks to everyone who participated. The following are the winners: Talent; First Place, Brittany Robertson, Second Place, Gillian Shields, Third Place, Brian Byers. Lip-Synch, Second Place, Daniel Sania, Jacque Chernow, Kathryn Simon, and Catriona Richmond, Third Place, Sarah Code, Jodi Krebs, Tammy Marsden, Alicia Penner and Amy Meadows.

4-H Club is up for a busy May

On March 31st, the West Didsbury 4-H Beef Club had a club project tour.

We saw everybody's projects and I think our club has some really good animals for the shows coming up. Our club will be hosting their female project show on Saturday, May 12, at the Didsbury Ag. Society Building.

We will also host a mock steer show on this date. The following week-end will be the Mountain View District 4-H Heifer Show. Our 4-H Steer Show and Sale will be held on Wednesday, May 23, at the Carstairs Arena. Our club will then head off to 4-H on Parade in Calgary from May 31 - June 03. The carcass steer projects will head to their competition on Monday, June 04, in Innisfail. So you can see the month ahead is going to be a busy one!!!

On April 21st our club attended the District 4-H Multi-Judging Competition at the Olds Cow Palace. Ryan Miller was third overall Junior and Terri Morton was the overall Senior winner. Congratulations!!

We are busy getting ready for the shows and our new members made their signs at Childspace Manufacturing with some help from Mr. Chris Whittaker. Our club really appreciates using the facility and all of Mr. Whittaker's advice. On May 5th we joined other 4-H clubs in the Highway Clean-up! Our next meeting will be held Tuesday, May 08. It is hard to believe the 4-H year is nearly over but the best is yet to come - all those shows!

MOUNTAIN VIEW COUNTY PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The Council of Mountain View County proposes to pass a By-law to amend the Municipal Development Plan By-law No. 67/92 and Land Use By-law No. 55/95 in accordance with the provisions of the Municipal Government Act.

The purpose of the proposed by-law is to amend both the Municipal Development Plan and the Land Use By-law to require that developed first parcels from unsubdivided quarter sections must be re-designated to an appropriate district under the Land Use By-law prior to subdivision.

At 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 16, 2001, the Council will hold public hearings regarding the above Municipal Development Plan and Land Use By-law amendment to be held in the Council Chambers, Didsbury, Alberta.

Any person or persons presenting their views to the Council on Mountain View County at the Public Hearings to be held in connection with the proposed amendments to the Land Use By-law shall state their name, location of residence and whether they are speaking on their own behalf or for a group. Presentations are limited to five minutes; a request for additional time may be made. Only one presentation per person or group is allowed, with the exception of the applicant.

Any person or persons wishing to submit their views in writing to the Council may do so provided the statement reaches the County Office, Didsbury, Alberta, not later than 12:00 o'clock noon, Monday, May 14th, 2001.

A copy of the above By-law amendment may be inspected at the County Office at 1601-15th Avenue, Didsbury, Alberta between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Monday to Friday, excepting statutory holidays. Anyone wishing to see a copy of our public hearing procedures may contact the County Office.

Dated at Didsbury, Alberta, this 27th day of April 2001.

Didsbury couple host Golden Wedding Celebration

By Mrs. Bessie Eckstrand

Susie and Frank Neufeld and their children hosted their Golden Wedding Celebration the afternoon of April 29th (real date April 7th) at Carstairs Community Hall, with about 280 guests signing the guest book.

M.C. for the afternoons entertainment was son Murray. There was an hours program of song, piano selections and speeches. One special event was a song by petite 2 year old Great Granddaughter "Emily Bates", entitled "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star". It was very cute and nicely done.

Program was followed by a lovely buffet supper catered to by the capable Teresa McNeal.

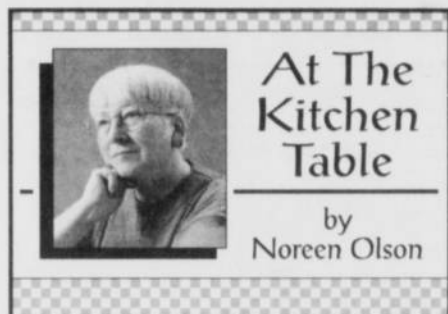

Present for the occasion were Susie and Frank's children: son Murray and wife Heidi of Surrey, B.C.; son Brian and wife Charlene of South Didsbury; daughter Maxine and husband Peter Janzen of Coaldale. Also 7 grandchildren and 1 great granddaughter. Family of 18 were all present. Also present were their adopted Family of Lastions of 20 years. 32 in all. Present from the Goerzen's, Susie's side of the family, were 5 brothers (2 missing) and 2 sisters. Frank's family, the Neufeld's had 5 brothers (2 missing) and 1 sister (2 missing) present. Out of town guests were from Manitoba, B.C. and Alberta.

Susie and Frank have lived just south of Didsbury for most of their 50 years of married life. Their church, New Berthal, has been most important in their lives. They are wonderful friends and neighbors and take part in area events. Susie is an avid needle worker and made her lovely satin wedding dress of 50 years ago and it was on display at the celebration along with Frank's wedding tie. Frank spends his spare time on wood work and makes some love eagles. They look real and could fly. Also on display were pictures of events through the years and so many lovely big red roses and one yellow gold bouquet of yellow gold roses given to the couple from their church.

Congratulations Golden Anniversary couple. South Didsbury and area wishes you many more years of happiness and good health

As graduation of Grade 12 comes closer, makes me think of many years ago when I went to high school and the last year Grade eleven, I worked for my board (others were Burr and Bessie Tuggle, Delbert Levagood). That fall the crops froze very hard Aug. 9th, the grain was so shriveled up and bitter the pigs wouldn't eat it. I don't know how we all lived through that awful winter and of course no money for next years school. So I hope the young folks of today appreciate their schooling and go out into the world to a good life and happiness. Farming and seeding has commenced and we all wish for much needed rain and hope this wind will settle down.

At The Kitchen Table

by Noreen Olson

Mark and Karen were married last Saturday. Mark, is our son Mark, and Karen, is Karen Dmitruk, our delightful new daughter-in-law. The entire event went beautifully and much of the credit has to go to Marks Time Line. Everybody teased him about his tremendously detailed Schedule of Events but he took the teasing in stride and handed out copies to all participants. There would be no excuse for anyone to slip up, you just had to refer to your schedule and you knew exactly where you were supposed to be, what your duties were and when to perform them. It included arrivals and departures, delivery times, place and time for photos, who decorates, undecorates, gets flowers and pays the Commissioner, when the band arrives and where they set up, greetings, toasts, instructions to the MC and relevant addresses. It was amazing. The first time Ralph and I saw the Schedule our reaction was, "we will have to synchronize our watches."

There were a couple of small hitches, the collar buttons on the new shirts were tight and a seam broke in John's tux. John is our son who flew in from Boston to be Best man. Mark had allowed time for emergencies and our daughter Kirsten was able to change buttons and stitch John back together. The schedule was maintained.

As a Marriage Commissioner I have seen a lot of weddings and there has never been one that didn't have some mishap. Guests that don't show up, photographers at the wrong address, rings that didn't arrive on time. At a wedding last summer both the decorative arches fell down. At our nieces wedding she and her Dad were scheduled to leave the house last and come to the church in the family car. Part way down the lane they heard a terrible wail and realized that a kitten was under the hood of the car. Bill lifted the hood and found an unhurt but terrified cat that had been sprayed all over with mud. In prying the cat loose the front of his suit became equally filthy. "Don't try to brush it off," Leanna told him, maybe when it dries it will come off better. And it did, Bill was not totally spotless but he was quite acceptable.

A few days before Karen and Mark's wedding I was a guest of the Carbon Library Board. I love going to Carbon, they are such nice people and they always take me to dinner at The Good and Plenty Restaurant which has excellent food. The Good and Plenty does a lot of catering and over dinner we got on the subject of weddings. Here is an abridged version of the worst wedding ever catered. They didn't give me any dates and names and I will not even mention the Town. The participants richly deserve to be anonymous.

The wedding was scheduled for 3:00 PM and the dinner for 5:00. The caterers were setting up when they were told that the wedding had not yet taken place so the dinner would have to be delayed. The three bridesmaids had gone that morning to pick up their dresses and none of them fit. The seamstress told them to come back in an hour but when they returned the dresses were untouched and the dressmaker had had a complete mental breakdown and been taken away to a hospital. The girls were in Calgary looking for dresses. Finally, four hours late, the wedding took place and the dinner was served. As the caterers were packing up the brides mom followed them to the van. "What about the midnight lunch" she wailed. "Here is the contract," the caterer told her, "you said you were doing the midnight lunch." By this point the poor woman was about ready to join the dressmaker in her padded cell so to soothe her the nice guys from Good and Plenty said, "OK we will think of something." They drove to Calgary but by this time no Wholesalers were open so they went to three different 7Elevens to get buns and cold meat, back to the wedding, worked till 3 AM and never did get paid for the Midnight Lunch.

Now if they had been using Mark's schedule think of the misery they would have saved themselves.

Focus on the Family

QUESTION: You listed alcoholism as a marriage killer. My husband has that problem. It has created a great deal of pain in our home, and I am concerned about the emotional welfare of my children. Can it be treated, and is there hope for families like mine?

DR. DOBSON: Alcoholism is a devastating disease, not only for the person who has it, but for his or her entire family. Research shows that 40 percent of people living in Western nations have a close family member who is an alcoholic.

That incidence is even higher in Russia and other countries of Eastern Europe. There is no way to calculate the impact of this problem on children, on spouses, and on the culture itself. Fortunately, it can be treated successfully for those who are willing to seek that help. I discussed the issue of alcoholism with a panel of knowledgeable people on a "Focus on the Family" radio broadcast. Included were Dr. Keith Simpson, a physician who has treated this problem for 20 years, and Jerry Butler, a marriage and family therapist with 25 years of counseling experience. His own father had committed suicide during one of his drunken binges. Also with me were "Bob," a recovered alcoholic, and his wife, "Pauline," who preferred that we withhold their real names. I did not ask these four individuals for a detailed analysis of alcoholism; our listeners already knew how serious it is.

Rather, I wanted them to provide us with practical suggestions as to how family members can recognize the disease and then be of help to those they love. The answers they gave were most encouraging and enlightening. Dr. Simpson was asked whether alcoholism can be treated successfully today. Is it a hopeless condition, or is there a way out for the victim and his family? This was his reply: "I specialized in the field of internal medicine for many years, but found it to be depressing work. I could help my patients with chronic lung disease and severe diabetes and heart disease, but in reality, my efforts were just a delaying action. Over time, conditions worsened and the diseases progressed. I made my rounds in intensive care each day and watched people losing their battle for life, whereas my alcoholic patients were getting well. 'That's why I deal almost exclusively with alcoholics now, and I find it to be extremely rewarding work. I see people who come in with more horrible problems than you can imagine, but they get into a recovery program, and in a few months, the difference is like going from night to day. 'So yes, not only is alcoholism treatable, but the medical community does better with this disorder than any other chronic disease. Alcoholics emerge from treatment programs more functionally integrated, more capable and more effective than before they 'caught' the disease."

That was the theme of the entire discussion: There is hope for the alcoholic!

But before recovery can begin, the problem has to be acknowledged and treatment sought. That applies to your own family situation, I'm sure. Your husband can be helped if he has "the want to."

QUESTION: I've been aware of my husband's unfaithfulness for sometime now. I've taken him to task for it, which has resulted in some incredible, horrible battles. I have even made demands that he stop his infidelity, yet no changes in his attitude and behavior have happened. What am I doing wrong?

DR. DOBSON: I'm afraid you've made the common mistake of misunderstanding the difference between expressions of anger and loving toughness. Simply becoming angry and throwing temper tantrums is no more effective with a spouse than it is with a rebellious teenager.

Screaming, accusing and berating are rarely successful in changing the behavior of human beings of any age. What is required is a course of action — an ultimatum that demands a specific response and results in a consequence.

Then you must have the courage to deliver on the promise.

Didsbury RCMP say unlocked cars are easy targets for theft

Traditionally arriving with the warmer weather and longer days is a noticeable increase in thefts from unsecured Motor Vehicles.

The Didsbury Detachment of the RCMP are concerned that unlocked vehicles become easy targets for thieves. "Too many vehicles are being left unlocked with valuable items inside, quite often in plain view," states Cst. Tim Diebel.

Statistics dating back several years show a trend for increased thefts from motor vehicles and unauthorized entries into motor vehicles during the summer months. Normally the number of occurrences increase in April and May and peak throughout July and August.

What are they looking for? For the most part money, cell phones, stereos, CD's and cameras are at the top of the list. More experienced thieves target the airbag mechanisms (which are a hot commodity in some areas) as well as the vehicle itself. And even if nothing is taken from your vehicle, just knowing someone was rooting through your glove box can be quite disturbing.

The simple solution SECURE YOUR VEHICLE!

By locking your vehicle and keeping valuable items out of sight during the day, and removing them at night, you can reduce the chance of being victimized by making your vehicle less attractive to would-be thieves. Most insurance companies these days do not cover losses sustained from a vehicle that was left unlocked. Therefore, by simply locking your vehicle you can avoid unnecessary repair expenses and potential replacement costs.

Alberta's Crime Prevention Week this year is May 11-18. As part of Crime Prevention Week and to promote awareness to this problem, the RCMP will be patrolling parking areas and residential neighbourhoods throughout Didsbury, Carstairs and Cremona, identifying unlocked vehicles. A checklist system will advise you of whether your vehicle is secure or contains visible items of value. This checklist system will be a gentle reminder of the need to secure your vehicle.

"This proactive approach will hopefully reduce the number of thefts from vehicles this summer by encouraging people to lock their vehicles at all times", says Diebel.

If you tend to not lock your vehicle, now would be the time to get into the habit, or you just might find a little reminder on your windshield the next time you're out.

However, if you do see a note on your vehicle, don't despair. People making the effort to properly secure their vehicles will also be identified by the RCMP with a notice thanking them for a job well done!

Busy times at Mount View Lodge

by Annie Caush

Here at the Lodge we keep occupied with various activities. Our Auxiliary hosted the April Birthday Party last week. We were privileged to have the choir sing for us. It was a wonderful evening and as usual we enjoyed birthday cake afterwards. Thanks to all! Those celebrating April birthdays are Lena Leischner, Edna Trca, Otto Setter and Willy Watt. Happy Birthday all! One evening Don Fletch came and sang for us. Thanks so much!

On Saturday several of us were able to go to Carstairs to their Spring Pie Social. It was a lucky day for one of our residents, Olive Rice as she won both door prize and a raffle prize. Congratulations! In hospital we have Alma Lennot. We hope to see you 'home' real soon.

Madness by Any Other Name

Local shoppers looking for great buys this weekend won't have to worry about shopping in the dark thanks to a slight change in the organization of the Spring Moonlight Madness event this year.

Chamber President, Dan Peters, says instead of holding their sales during the evening hours, merchants across town will be participating in a more appropriate Saturday daytime event. The reason for the change, he explains, is to align the sale event with that of the Show and Shine events. "We appreciate so much what the Show and Shine Committee is doing for the town, so we want to work with them as closely as possible for the benefit of everyone involved," says Peters. Over 200 vintage automobiles and customized vehicles are expected to line the streets throughout the day Saturday as part of this year's 8th Annual Show and Shine Event. Enthusiasts come from places like Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge...even Surrey, B.C. to take part in the festivities of this well-known showcase event.

The Didsbury Show and Shine Event was originally held on Friday night as part of the festivities organized to help the Chamber of Commerce promote Moonlight Madness. Activities then used to include movies on the old elevator. "Show and Shine has done a lot for the businesses in town and we just feel it's time to work more closely with them," says Peters. "We anticipate a first-class event again this year."

Grad goes Hollywood

On June 2nd, approximately 70 students from the Didsbury High School will walk across a stage decorated with red carpet and tell-tale statue of a gold man standing with his arms across his chest. Sound familiar? It should...less than a month ago TV audiences across the country witnessed a similar scenario while watching the Oscar Award Presentation.

"We just thought it would be fun to try to reproduce the look of Hollywood," says Chelsea Buick, this year's Grad Committee President. But like any hollywood production, there is a cost involved. "We have been fundraising pretty much year-round," says Buick. "So far we have raised about $7,000. A lot of that money goes towards the banquet, rentals, a DJ and so on...it's a lot of work."

Thankfully Buick says this month marks the beginning of "May Monarch Month", a time set aside for students of all ages to set out on their fundraising drives. "For the Grade 12 students it means we will be working to finish up any final rallies or drives we may have taking place."

So far the Grad Committee has held Car Washes (just this past weekend), sold Christmas Card CDs, and organized a Hypnotist and Silent Auction event.

For those that aren't aware, Graduation Day will commence at 2 pm June 2nd with a class group photo followed by assembly at the arena at 2:30 pm, a Graduation Banquet at Westglen School at 6 pm and Prom Dance and Social at 8 pm.

Guides help feed Children in Mexico

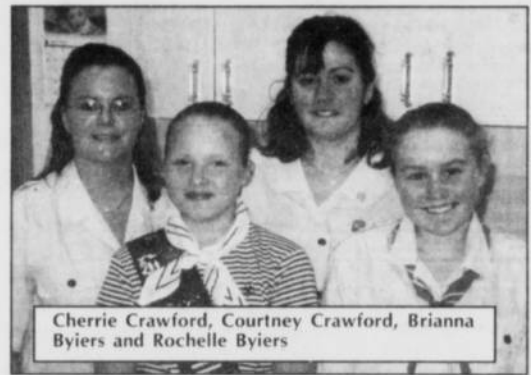

What started out as some planning for a family vacation has turned into a unique fundraising drive for the Girl Guides of Didsbury.

Girl Guide Leader Rochelle Byiers and her family were surfing the internet recently to learn more about Puerto Vallarta, when they came across an inspiring organization aimed at feeding and educating street children in Mexico. "We are going to be collecting school supplies and money to help purchase food through an organization called Perdon y amistad," explains Byiers. Roughly translated, Perdon y amistad means forgiveness and fellowship. The non-profit organization helps get young children off the streets and ensures that they have clean water, food and education. "We just take so much for granted here in Canada. These people are genuinely in need and we want to do all we can to help."

While in Puerto Vallarta, Byiers and her family will have the opportunity to hand deliver the supplies to the organization and will be helping to put the boxes of food supplies together and deliver them to needy families. "The perfect part of this is that the girls will get to see photos and hear first hand about how their efforts paid off to help others in need," she says.

Byiers says her goal is to be able to fill a suitcase with school supplies and have enough money for a generous food donation. "everyone is invited to participate in this. It is not solely a Girl Guide fund-raiser...my son (Jessie) who is in Scouts has also been helping out along with my daughter (Brienne) who is a Girl Guide...We would love for this to become an annual giving event eventually. Even every second year would be a huge help to these people."

Anyone interested in participating in the Mexican Feed the Children Project is encouraged to call Rochelle Byiers at 335-8864.

Constable Tim Diebel

Buckle up...for Goodness Sake

In a recent seat belt survey, one third of all rural drivers do not wear their seat belts while driving.

This is just one of the reasons the RCMP, along with the Alberta Center for Injury Control and Research (ACICR), Mission Possible, Regional Health Authorities and provincial traffic safety partners are supporting the latest STEP (Selective Traffic Enforcement Program) Program to encourage proper and safe seat belt and car seat usage.

"We are taking a 0 per cent tolerance with this now," says Constable Tim Diebel. "All offenders we stop will be ticketed." Diebel says on average, only 69 per cent of people on this province's roads wear seat belts, compared to the city driver, whose seat belt rates are 87 per cent.

Unbuckled victims exact a heavy toll on all Albertans, whether it's increased health care costs, insurance or social or emotional costs. "These collisions exact a heavy emotional toll on the officers as well, who have to investigate the collision, and serve notification of death. Every officer on the job dreads going to a family to notify them of a death, especially when it was absolutely preventable," says Sergeant Ron Platz.

The crackdown on seat belt usage will also include improper use or non-use of child restraints. According to statistics released by the RCMP, nine out of 10 children in Alberta are not properly protected by safety seats or seat belts while in a moving vehicle. "In fact, motor vehicle collisions are the leading cause of death and injury to children under 15 years of age," says Diebel.

If you are stopped by an RCMP officer over the next two weeks, the fine will be $57.00. "We've been holding a lot of check stops lately to make people aware of the campaign," Diebel explains. "The awareness portion of this Program is over though. If we stop you now, you will be ticketed."

New Lifeguard ready for Work

It's not unusual to see Amy Hunter near water. Ever since she was two-years-old, Amy has been practicing her now perfected swim technique in the pool. "My mom (Rhonda Hunter) used to dunk me in when I was just a little girl...I guess it all paid off," jokes Amy, now 18 and fully installed as the newest addition to the lifeguard crew at the Didsbury Aquatic Centre.

But being able to fulfill her life-long dream of becoming a lifeguard has not been without work for Amy. "I've always wanted to do this. I started getting my first certificate that I needed when I was 14-years-old." And the training won't stop there for Amy. "I'm going to take some more pool operating courses so I can get a job someday in recreation administration. It's really what I want to work towards."

For now, however, Amy is enjoying her long-awaited duties as a lifeguard. "Right now my duties range anywhere from clean-up to guarding to lessons." Her most recent class is made up of children under the age of seven. Amy herself can remember being taught at the Didsbury pool by both her mom and Michael Johnson (the facility's current Programmer for Recreation and Facility Services). "They've both been such a huge inspiration to me."

Didsbury celebrating the year of the volunteer

Volunteering. It's a word that is common to many households in the Didsbury Community. Do you ever feel like you're not appreciated? Well, 2001 is the International Year of the Volunteer, and what a better time to recognize all of the deserving community members! A preliminary committee for organizing a recognition evening for volunteers in the community has been struck. The first meeting was held on April 17, 2001.

All volunteers of the community work hard to provide services for the betterment of the community. It's been a number of years now since there has been any sort of celebration or recognition event.

When it was asked as to why recognition events stopped in Didsbury, it was mentioned that each year, numbers decreased for the events.

The reasons for the decrease in numbers ranged from that the event was too formal, to volunteers don't want recognition - they just want to do their part.

So, this year, we've decided to try something a little different than the formal events that have been held in the past. 2001 is also the 25th Anniversary of the Didsbury Memorial Complex.

The preliminary organizing committee is planning an informal event to honour both the volunteers of the community and honour the 25th Anniversary of the Didsbury Memorial Complex.

Preliminary plans include a program to recognize both events, an informal supper, and entertainment. Right now, we are in the preliminary stages of planning some very special entertainment. Cross your fingers that everything follows through because you won't want to miss it!

So...what now? First of all, we are in need of people to sit on the organizing committee. Is there a better way to celebrate the occasion than to be a part of planning it? Also, we need to identify volunteer organizations in the Didsbury Community. We would like to ask that volunteers and/or volunteer organizations submit their names to the Recreation and Facility Services Department of the Town of Didsbury to ensure that you're contacted every step of the way.

To express interest in the unofficially named Didsbury International Year of the Volunteer Committee, or to put your name or your volunteer organization's name forward, please call the Recreation and Facility Services Department at 335-7369.

Midway classes busy with variety of topics

Mrs. Roedler's Gr. 1/2 Class

We dyed eggs for Easter. We got the yolk out with a pin and then blew out the yolk. Then we dyed them different colors. We went swimming at the Didsbury Pool. In Social Studies we are studying families and in Science we are doing water experiments to see what floats or sinks. We roll pennies that our school collects for a special Charity that we choose at the beginning of the year. This year our pennies will go to the Rosebud Health Foundation (Didsbury Hospital). By Michael and Jamie.

Ms. Lowe's Gr. 3/4 Class

We are making a Guardian Angel for Mrs. Chaytor. We are learning about geometry in math. We do special booklets for each month. They tell us about special events for that month and special activities. We are learning about not teasing people and we watched a movie about this. In Language Arts we do spelling and novel studies. We are reading "The Fourth Grade Nothing" right now. We read this with a partner. By Marissa and Justene.

Miss Thorpe's Gr. 5/6 Class

In Social Studies we are studying the Alberta: It's People in History. In Science we are studying Sky Science. We study the planets and constellations. We have pen pals that we correspond with from Innisfail in L. A. In Grade 5 math we are doing Fractions. In Grade 6 math we are doing percentages, changing fractions and decimals. We were very fortunate to take a People's Savers Course which was donated by Exxon-Mobil Oil last month. In the course we learned how to treat burns, bleeding, broken limbs, and lost limbs. Thank you to Exxon-Mobil Oil for being so kind to pay for this course. We learned the ABC's of Choking. We went to the Health Fair in Olds at Deer Meadow School. There was lots of programs that dealt with making difficult choices and relieving stress in everyday life. By Justin and Allyson

What is the victim's role after crime occurs?

If you have been, the following information may be of assistance.....

If you have been a victim of crime you may suffer physical and emotional effects which are not only painful but also may be confusing and frightening. You may find the criminal justice system intimidating and your experience frustrating. No one ever expects something like this to happen to them. It may seem as if your privacy and sense of personal security have been taken from you. You may find yourself unable to trust others and afraid the crime will recur. You may experience difficulty sleeping or eating. The anxiety and fear you may be experiencing can add too your stress. You may also feel that there might have been something you could have done to prevent the incident.

All of these feelings are perfectly normal and will usually pass in time. You cannot be blamed when someone else breaks the law; it is not your fault. After the crime has been reported, the police may ask you questions as part of their investigation. You will be asked to provide a "witness statement." If an arrest is made, you may have to attend court as a witness. If you wish to have input into sentencing, you may want to prepare a VICTIM IMPACT STATEMENT.

What is a victim impact statement?

Under Section 722 of the Criminal Code of Canada, a victim impact statement allows you to express in writing to a judge how being a victim of crime has affected you and the people close to you.

Your victim impact statement should describe the harm done, the loss suffered by you and the emotional impact you have experienced. Information or evidence regarding the offence should have already been included in the witness statement provided to police and should not be included in the victim impact statement. The statement should not contain criticisms of the offender or recommendations as to the severity of the punishment.

Once completed, your statement will be provided to the court and will be considered by the judge at the time the offender is sentenced. You may be cross-examined in court on the contents of your statement.

Facts about victim impact statements

1) anyone who is a victim of a crime may prepare a victim impact statement. In a case where the victim has died or is incapable of preparing a victim impact statement, it may be prepared by a spouse or relative.

2) your victim impact statement is voluntary. It provides you with an opportunity to be involved in the criminal justice system by giving a clearer picture of how the offence has affected you.

3) the victim impact statement gives you an opportunity to express your feelings directly to the court and explain the loss you may have suffered as a result of a crime.

4) the victim impact statement is to be written in your own words. It is important to express your feelings in a way that is comfortable to you. You may obtain the victim impact statement form from the police service in your area. If additional space is required, additional pages may be attached.

5) you may have someone help you prepare the statement. You should remember however, that this statement is your statement and should show how you have been affected by this offence.

6) this statement will be provided to the defense council or the offender.

7) you will be permitted to read your victim impact statement in court. Please indicate your desire to do so by checking the appropriate box on the victim impact statement form.

8) your victim impact statement may also be considered by correctional authorities and the National Parole Board. As well, when there is a verdict of not criminally responsible on account of mental disorder, the court Review Board will consider your victim impact statement.

Restitution for Victims of Crime

If you have suffered financial loss as a result of a crime, you may have the right to seek restitution from the offender. Restitution is a way for the offender to repay you for the loss you have suffered.

You are required to complete a Request for Restitution Form which will be provided to you by a police officer investigating your case. If a Request for Restitution Form is not given to you, please ask for one. Once you have filled out the form, return it to the police as quickly as possible. The police will then send your form to the Crown prosecutor. If the Crown declines to make the application, you may request the court to do so on its own motion. You may wish to contact your own lawyer in such a case.

You may make your inquiries at the Crown prosecutors office, the police station, or at the nearest police Victims Services Unit. This form sets out the available categories of restitution and asks you to provide background to identify the incident, yourself and the offender. The amount of restitution must be easily established by the Court. You are responsible for bringing all necessary documents to court to assist in establishing the amount you are claiming.

The form is needed quickly as the offender may plead guilty early. The Crown must also provide your form to the offender and/or the offenders lawyer. The Crown prosecutor decides as to whether or not it is necessary for you to appear in court. After an offender is found guilty, the judge can consider restitution when sentencing. When appropriate, the restitution order will be made first.

Types of Restitution

* DAMAGE, DESTRUCTION, LOSS OF PROPERTY: the restitution order will not exceed the value of the property and will be reduced by the value of any property returned.

* BODILY HARM: the restitution order will cover any reasonable expense.

* EXPENSES OCCURRED IN MOVING OUT OF THE OFFENDERS HOUSE: the restitution order will cover any reasonable expenses.

* LOSSES INCURRED BY UNKNOWNLY PURCHASING OR LENDING MONEY ON STOLEN

PROPERTY:

Where the property has been returned to its lawful owner, the restitution order will cover the loss you have incurred. The order will not exceed the original amount you paid or the amount outstanding on a loan.

A copy of the restitution order will be sent to you by the court.

You are responsible for filing the order as a judgement in the Court of Queen's Bench. You are also responsible for enforcing the judgement in the same way as if you had brought an action in Civil Court and obtained a judgement. A Civil Court filing fee will NOT BE charged for a restitution order. You may also wish to consult a lawyer for advice on enforcing the judgement.

NOTICE TO MOUNTAIN VIEW COUNTY PROPERTY OWNERS

As required under the provisions of the Municipal Government Act, Chapter M-26.1 Section 311 (1), notice is hereby given that the 2001 Assessment Notices were mailed on May 7th, 2001.

The Assessment Roll will be open for inspection at the Mountain View County Office for a thirty-day period. Anyone wishing to register a formal complaint must do so in writing, and forward it to the attention of the "Clerk of the Assessment Review Board", together with the accompanying fee, on or before June 6th, 2001.

Please read your assessment notice carefully and direct your questions or concerns to the Assessment Department staff at the County Office (403) 335-3311 prior to the conclusion of the thirty-day complaint period.

High Buyer ...

Darwin, Louise and Jamie Krebs of Didsbury were the high buyers at the Wild Rose Draft Horse Sale with the purchase of two-year-old AshAm West Spring Mist - a champion at the Calgary Stampede from seller John Walker. The sale, which was held in Olds, saw just under fifty heavy horses change hands.

Speaking out for farmers

Many of you attended the Canadian Wheat Board's director supper meetings recently held across the Prairies. The main purpose of these meetings was to give you the opportunity to tell your CWB director about concerns you have relating to the CWB or agricultural issues in general. The directors also used these meetings to report back to farmers in their districts on CWB programs and policies.

After the supper meetings, six CWB directors - five of whom were elected directors - travelled to Ottawa to pass on to politicians the opinions they received from farmers. They gave presentations to the Standing Committee on Agriculture and Agri-Food and the Standing Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry.

This gave farmers a strong voice when speaking to those holding the political power that will benefit Canadian farmers. Three main issues came up at all the 36 director supper meetings attended by close to 6,000 farmers.

The hottest topic was genetically modified wheat and its possible introduction into the Canadian commercial production system within a few years. Farmers were very vocal at the supper meetings stating that export markets for western Canadian wheat must not be comprised by the introduction of genetically modified wheat.

They felt that genetically modified wheat shouldn't be commercially grown in Canada until there is market acceptance.

While in Ottawa, the directors told politicians that the CWB doesn't support the registration of genetically modified wheat or barley varieties unless market acceptance exists or unless it can be kept separate from conventional varieties. Meeting these conditions will take years, but the CWB is working with the grain industry, government and life sciences companies to develop comprehensive variety segregation programs.

Speeding up cash flow for farmers so that initial payments more clearly reflect the marketplace was also one of the main discussion topics at the supper meetings.

The CWB is now examining ways to issue adjustment and final payment cheques sooner.

Do you have what it takes to market direct?

Farm direct marketing encompasses everything from offering "agri-education" through school tours to setting up a farm store or u-pick berry farm.

There is more to developing these types of businesses than putting out a sign and opening the gates," says Kerry Engel, rural development specialist-business with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Westlock. "An understanding of the trends shaping consumer buying habits is needed. It's important to determine the wants and needs of potential clients. For example, people want a connection with the farmers that are growing their food and there is an increase in the number of day trips taken by the urban population. Finding out what teachers and students want in agri-education; or what mothers want out of a day-trip to the country; or what events kids enjoy at a festival is a good place to start when considering farm direct marketing."

Once some market research is completed, the infrastructure needs to be assessed.

Signs, parking, layout, traffic flow, displays, buildings, facilities, grounds and equipment are a few of the basic requirements needed to help create a more effective farm direct marketing venture on your farm.

"Customer parking is crucial," adds Engel. "Having sufficient parking for peak sales periods is a must. Entrances and exits need to be visible, well marked with signs and safe."

Consider whether a sales structure and rest areas are needed. Traffic movement (flow) around the grounds should be well planned. If needed, develop a landscape maintenance plan to ensure the market area is looking its best.

"Road signs and directional signs are a must," says Engel. "Don't forget price signs and informational or educational signage."

There is a lot to think about when considering this type of endeavour. If you are thinking about diversifying into farm direct marketing contact Engel at (780)349-4465 for more information.

Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development recently released three new factsheets focusing on the agri-tourism industry: Country Vacation Enterprise, Rural Festivals and Special Events, and Providing Farm Tours. Along with the publication Direct Marketing for Rural Producers and farm Direct Marketing - Know your Regulations, these factsheets provide information on farm direct marketing and agri-tourism industries, regulatory consideration, operations, marketing and market focus, and financial and economic issues.

They also provide a list of other references along with contact people in the industry.

These factsheets are available from Alberta Agriculture's publications office, 7000 - 113 Street, Edmonton, AB T6H 5T6, and at Alberta Agriculture regional advisory services of offices.

Information is also available through the Alberta Agriculture web site: <www.agric.gov.ab.ca>.

Pesticide Use: Top questions of Canadians about lawn care

With the arrival of spring, many Canadian homeowners will once again be turning their attention to lawn and garden care. And with spring's onset comes the resurgence of claims and counter claims concerning pesticide use by homeowners and commercial lawn care service companies.

"At this time of year, there is a significant increase in the number of calls from Canadians to the 2,4-D Information Line", observes Donald Page, Executive director of the industry Task Force II on 2,4-D Research Data. "There is a large body of confusing information in the public domain which raises concerns about the use of lawn pesticides by homeowners."

With 19 years of involvement in research, the Task Force has an interest in this matter, given that 2,4-D is the most commonly used active ingredient in lawn care herbicides. The Task Force is a group of international companies sanctioned by governments to fund more than 270 new research studies required by the federal Pest Management Regulatory Agency (PMRA) under the Canadian pesticide re-evaluation program. These studies are now complete and are currently being reviewed by regulatory agencies in Canada and the United States.

Callers to the Information Line most frequently raised questions about the following issues:

1. "Bystanders to turf pesticide applications are exposed to 2,4-D"

Research at the University of Guelph (<http://www.24d.org/harris.pdf>) shows the highest observed exposure to 2,4-D for commercial and homeowner applicators was well below the lifetime acceptable daily intake as established by World Health Organization. The most recent research demonstrates that there were no detectable exposures for the bystanders who resided in homes of homeowner or commercially treated lawns or for barefoot, barelegged bystanders who actively walked on and sat on turf grass one hour after the application.

2. Regulators do not take into account the effects of pesticides on children

The Pest Management Regulatory Agency (PMRA) and other government agencies tasked with the responsibility of assessing the risks associated with pesticides do take into account the exposure to vulnerable groups, such as children. To quote from the federal government's response to the House of Commons Standing Committee on Environment and Sustainable Development (<http://www.he-sc.gc.ca/pmra/english/pdf/hlwans/hl-GovtResp-e.pdf>):

"Assessment of children's potential exposure includes direct and indirect skin contact with surfaces treated with pesticides, ingestion through the transfer of residues from the hands to the mouth, soil ingestion and inhalation. Children's unique play and activity patterns, including higher contact with surfaces and increased teething and mouthing activity, and children's unique physiology, are factored into these exposure estimates. The unique food consumption patterns of infants and children are considered, including their consumption of maternal milk, packaged milk and fruit juice."

3. "Pesticides are inadequately researched" 2,4-D, in addition to being the most widely used agricultural herbicide worldwide, was the first selective herbicide developed (a selective herbicide controls weeds in a crop without harming the crop), something that stimulated an enormous amount of research on 2,4-D all over the world. The toxicology database alone exceeds 4,000 peer-reviewed, published studies, plus hundreds of unpublished studies that the manufacturers must fund for the various regulatory agencies throughout the world.

Additionally, there are now more than 100 peer-reviewed, published epidemiologic (human) studies pertinent to 2,4-D.

The Canadian government acknowledged this research in its response to report of the House of Commons

Standing Committee on Environment and Sustainable Development last October.

4. "2,4-D is a known or possible endocrine disruptor." The endocrine disruptor hypothesis was first popularized in 1996 by Theo Colburn in her book Our Stolen Future. 2,4-D was mentioned only once in her book, and not in reference to endocrine disruption. However, 2,4-D is cited on the web sites of major Canadian environmental groups as a known or possible endocrine disruptor.

INVITATION FOR OFFERS FOR THE ASSETS OF TIROL INC. & TIROL INTERNATIONAL MARKETING INC. IN RECEIVERSHIP

PricewaterhouseCoopers Inc. ("PwC") was appointed as Receiver of Tirol Inc. and Tirol International Marketing Inc. (collectively referred to as "Tirol") by the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench on March 23, 2001. As a result of this appointment, PwC is conducting a sales process for the assets of Tirol. PwC is soliciting offers for various lots including, but not limited to, land and buildings, plant machinery and equipment, shop equipment, office equipment, light trucks, and heavy equipment. Offers for en bloc purchase of all of the existing operation will also be considered.

The sales process is to be conducted along the following timetable:

- | | |
|------------------|---|
| May 4, 2001 | Copies of Information Memorandum to be available to prospective purchasers by electronic access (www.pwcglobal.com/hrs-tirol) or by information document. |
| May 7 - 18, 2001 | Site visits will be available by appointment. |
| May 25, 2001 | Final bids to be received by PwC by 3:00 p.m. Calgary time and are to include terms and conditions which are to be provided by PwC as part of the sales process. Bids are to be final, irrevocable and contain a deposit and evidence of bidder ability to close. |

PwC reserves the right to consider a sale of assets outside the sales process at any time and reserves the right to reject the highest, or any, bid. Sales are on an "as is, where is" basis and are subject to approval by the Court. All of which is outlined in greater detail in the Information Memorandum PwC has prepared in connection with this process.

The Tirol facilities are presently shut down and not operating. The operations are located near Tilley, Rolling Hills and Bow Island, Alberta.

To obtain a copy of the information document or information concerning the sale process, please contact Mr. Paul Darby, PricewaterhouseCoopers Inc., 2100, 639 - 5th Avenue S.W., Calgary, Alberta T2P 0M9. Phone: (403) 509-7333 ext. 6538. Fax: (403) 781-1825.

Agroforestry conference will be held in Regina

An agroforestry conference is being held on August 13 to 15, 2001 in Regina, Saskatchewan. The conference will focus on agroforestry as it relates to changes in social and economic patterns, including technology change, the agricultural economy, demand and supply of wood products. It will also address on the role of agroforestry in the environment including the changing physical climate due to global warming. More information is available on the internet at <<http://www.agr.ca/pfra/aftappfa.htm>>. Information is also available by contacting Toso Bozic, sustainable woodlot specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Barrhead, (780) 674-8213.

Ag and Food Science Scholarship awarded

A scholarship established in the Faculty of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics at the University of Alberta, has been awarded to Lise Luppens, a nutritional sciences student. The annual scholarship, sponsored by the Special Crops Product Team of Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development and C.V. Technologies Inc., is awarded to a student who has demonstrated superior academic achievements and is entering the third or fourth year of a degree program majoring in agriculture or nutrition and food science, with an interest in production or use of special crops or nutraceuticals and functional foods of plant origin. The recipient of the $1,250 per annum scholarship is selected on the basis of academic standing. "This scholarship is very helpful in a time of rising tuition costs," says Luppens. "The financial assistance will be most beneficial in offsetting additional expenses incurred by my participation in an upcoming exchange between the University of Alberta and the University of Wollongong, New South Wales, Australia." Luppens is taking part in this exchange to gain a more international perspective on human nutrition. For further information, contact Stan Blade, director of Alberta Agriculture's Crop Diversification Centre North, Edmonton, (780) 415-2311.

Soil conservation for dryland - the 1000 pound rule

Soil erosion on dryland will be a greater concern over the next year because of last summer's drought. Low crop yields have reduced the amount of crop residue to critical levels on many fields and conservation practices are needed to protect remaining residue.

"Wind or water erosion is a greater risk whenever the soil cover drops below 1000 lbs per acre, depending on soil type and field situation," says Don Wentz, soil salinity specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Food and Rural Development, Lethbridge. "Soil conservation practices, such as strip cropping, re-cropping and permanent cover, are used extensively on dryland to reduce soil degradation on highly erodible soil types."

An average wheat crop produces about 80 lbs of residue per bushel of harvested grain. This ratio may not work when moisture conditions are on the extreme high or low end. For example, during drought conditions, some wheat crops will produce a lot of straw but run out of moisture for grain.

"Last year's wheat grown on stubble may have only yielded 10 bushels per acre, but residue production looks to be over 1000 lbs for most fields," continues Rob Dunn, cereal and oilseed specialist with Alberta Agriculture, Lethbridge. "Wheat on fallow yielded about 25 bushels per acre with residue levels estimated at 2000 to 2500 lbs. Barley will have similar amounts with canola and mustard less because of lower yields. Pulse crops are worse yet because of poor yields and lower residue produced per bushel of harvested grain. Cereal and oilseed crops have the added advantage of standing stubble that is more effective at trapping snow and preventing erosion compared to pulses."

The residue produced by last year's crop is aided by any carryover from previous year that could vary from a little to a lot, depending on the rotation and tillage practices. Chemical fallow or direct seeding will retain more carryover, buffering the effects of subsequent dry years or lower residue broadleaf crops.

"Residue levels should be ad-equated for fields being re-cropped provided they are direct seeded," adds Dunn. "However, farmers who want to start a fallow period have a greater challenge because of the length of time between now and the next crop. Keep in mind that surface residue can decompose fairly quickly on the soil surface, even without tillage. Expect a 50 to 70 per cent reduction in cereal stubble biomass and a 75 to 85 per cent reduction for canola or mustard biomass, with no-tillage one year after harvest. The breakdown rate is affected by moisture conditions and the carbon to nitrogen ratio of the straw. Straw types with lower carbon to nitrogen ratios tend to break down more quickly."

Chemical fallow is the best practice for conserving residue on summer fallow but a combination of chemical and blade or sweep tillage can also be effective because of the combined effect of some residue with a rough soil surface. Chemical fallow with cereal or oilseed stubble has the added benefit of improved snow catch through winter that can be very important during drier years. Plan for a further 20 per cent reduction in residue with each sweep tillage operation. Pulse stubble should be re-cropped or cover-cropped to a cereal unless there is a very heavy carryover of residue from previous years. Aggravating the situation of low residue production from pulses is the rapid decomposition under normal field conditions. Research at Lethbridge has shown that pulse residue can decompose very rapidly during a fallow period. Minimum tillage plots lost 92 per cent and chemical fallowed plots lost 83 per cent of their cover within a year of harvest. Very little cover was left to control erosion during the critical second winter and spring seeding period. Pulse residue decomposes very quickly because of the higher nitrogen content in the straw compared to cereal or oilseed crops.

Images of Arbor Day 2001

Joelle Fournier helps gather woodchips around the base of some trees at the Habitat Renewal Area near Westglen School. She was one of several residents who turned out (despite rainy and cool weather) Saturday as part of this year's Arbor Day Activities.

Bob Davidson, Mitch Miller, Lawrance Roland, Peter Versluys and Gerard Fournier pose for a group picture by the newly placed plaque that commemorated Arbor Day 2001.

OBITUARY

HARRIS, Doris Irene (nee Dick) of Calgary, passed away at the Rockyview General Hospital on Saturday, April 28, 2001, at the age of 77 years. Doris is survived by her brothers, Bill, Gene; her children Shirley (Bill) Beaton, Pat (Don) Proudlock, Richard, Bill (Andree) and Beverley (Dave) Harris; eleven grandchildren and several great grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, Nick and parents, Jenny and Bill. She has resided at the Beverly Nursing Home for the past 15 years and the family would like to thank the staff at the Beverly for all their care and consideration over the years. Doris will be dearly missed and a Memorial Service will take place for family and friends at a later date. If friends so desire, memorial tributes may be made directly to the Heart & Stroke Foundation of Alberta, 1825 Park Road, S.E., Calgary, Alberta T2G 3Y6. To email expressions of Sympathy: condolences@mcinnisandholloway.com Subject Heading: Doris Harris. In living memory of Doris Harris, a tree will be planted at Fish Creek Provincial Park by McInnis & Holloway Funeral Homes, "Fish Creek Chapel" 14441, Bannister Rd., S.E. Calgary. 403-256-9575.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to thank everyone who came to help us celebrate our Golden Wedding Anniversary, for flowers, gifts, cards and well wishes. Frank and Susie Neufeld.

Didsbury Army Cadets would like to thank the Elks, Royal Purple, AG Foods, Lone Pine Cheese and Our Rose Lounge for the generous donations of time, money and supplies for our annual mess dinner.

CARDS OF THANKS

A special thank you from Emil and Hilda Regner: Emil and I are most appreciative to all our family and friends, many who came quite a distance to join with us in the recent celebration of our 60th wedding anniversary. Special thanks to Pastor Mohns, the entertainment in song and a tasty luncheon. We greatly appreciate all the beautiful cards, gifts and tributes. God's richest blessings to you all.

ANNIVERSARY

The family of Ray and Fay Schumaker would like you to join them in the celebration of their 50th Anniversary on June 2, 2001, at the Didsbury Elks Hall from 1-5.

No gifts please. Your presence is your gift.

We'd like you to know more: 1.9% offers based on 2001 Pontiac Sunfire SL (R72)/Grand Am (R72)/Grand Prix (R72)/Buick Century (R72) equipped as described and includes freight of $730/$795/$895/$895. License, insurance, registration, administration fees and taxes are not included. Total obligation $10,854-$13,859/$19,239/$18,579. Option to purchase at lease end $5,300/$4,300/$12,300/$10,600 (plus applicable taxes). Upgrade to Sunfire SLX (R7X) SmartLease payment is $299 per month, 48 months. All leases have annual km limit of 20,000 km, $0.12 per excess kilometre. Other lease options available. *Financing on approved GMAC credit only. Example: $10,000 at 1.9% APR, the monthly payment is $205.99/$216.50/$174.84 for 36/48/60 months. Cost of borrowing is $295.64/$392.96/$490.40. Total obligation is $10,295.64/$10,392.96/$10,490.40. Monthly payment and cost of borrowing will vary depending on amount borrowed and down payment/trade. The SmartLease monthly payment and GMAC Purchase Finance rate are not available with and are not calculated on the "Cash Purchase" price shown. The difference between the SmartLease/GMAC Purchase Finance offer and the Cash Purchase price offer is deemed under provincial disclosure laws to be a cost of borrowing, whether or not the same represents actual interest, and is required to be expressed as an annual percentage rate which is 3.68% (Grand Am)/4.64% (Grand Prix)/2.85% (Century). 1.9% offers apply to qualified retail customers in the Alberta, East Kootenays and Peace Country area only. Dealer order or trade may be necessary. Limited time offer which may not be combined with other offers. The Best Buy Emblem is a registered trademark of Consumers Digest Inc., used under license.
